RUSSIA AND THE KINGS OF THE EAST

Russia: New U.S. military strategy is confrontational

July 2, 2015 -- Voice of America News reports: "Russia said Thursday a new U.S. military strategy was confrontational and would not help improve relations with Moscow, strained by the crisis in Ukraine.

The strategy, released by the Pentagon on Wednesday, said Russia had repeatedly demonstrated it does not respect the sovereignty of its neighbors and that it was willing to use force to achieve its goals.

Kremlin spokesman Dmitry Peskov expressed regret about the content of the document and said it indicated a 'confrontational attitude, devoid of any objectivity towards our country.'

'Of course this will hardly contribute to attempts to steer bilateral relations in the direction of normalization,' he told reporters during a conference call.

Relations between Moscow and the West are at their lowest point since the end of the Cold War, mainly because of the crisis in Ukraine..." (Russia, China, and Iran constitute the major nations joining together for the third world war and the battle called Armageddon – Revelation 16:16. Russia cites 'threats' as nuclear arsenal boosted June 17, 2015 -- SpaceDaily.com reports: "President Vladimir Putin said Tuesday that Russia must defend itself if threatened, as the U.S. warned against a return to a 'Cold War status' after Moscow announced plans to boost its nuclear arsenal.

The declaration from the Kremlin strongman came as Russia reacted with fury to reports the U.S. is planning to bulk up its military deployments in Eastern Europe, adding to already high tensions between Russia and the West over the Ukraine conflict.

Putin said NATO -- which has accused Russia of backing rebels in eastern Ukraine with weapons and its own troops, a claim Moscow denies -- of 'coming to our borders'.

'If someone puts some of our territories under threat, that means we will have to direct our armed forces and modern strike power at those territories, from where the threat emanates,' he said at a meeting with his Finnish counterpart Sauli Niinisto.

Russia develops 'microwave gun' able to deactivate drones, warheads

June 15, 2015 -- SputnikNews.com reports: "Russia has developed a super-high-frequency gun capable of deactivating unmanned aerial vehicles (UAV) and the warheads of precision weapons at an impact range of ten kilometers which ensures 360 degrees of perimeter defense.

Russia's United Instrument Manufacturing Corporation (UIMC), part of Rostec Corporation, has announced that it developed a super-high-frequency gun for BUK missile systems.

The newly-developed equipment is capable of deactivating the radio electronics of UAVs and the warheads of precision weapons, according to a representative of the corporation.

The equipment, informally named the microwave gun, has been developed for the needs of Russia's Defense Ministry and will be demonstrated during the closed part of Army-2015, an international event organized by the Russian Defense Ministry, the Federal Space Agency (Roscosmos) and state technology corporation Rostec, which will be held on June 16-19.

June 19, 2015 -- DefenseOne.com reports: "The Pentagon is quietly working to set up an elaborate network of defenses to protect American cities from a barrage of Russian cruise missiles.

The plan calls for buying radars that would enable National Guard F-16 fighter jets to spot and shoot down fast and low-flying missiles. Pentagon rushing to open space-war center to counter China, Russia

June 25, 2015 -- DefenseOne.com reports: "The Pentagon and intelligence community are developing war plans and an operations center to fend off Chinese and Russian attacks on U.S. military and government satellites.

The ops center, to be opened within six months, will receive data from satellites belonging to all government agencies, Deputy Defense Secretary Robert Work said Tuesday at the GEOINT symposium, an annual intelligence conference sponsored by the United States Geospatial Intelligence Foundation.

"We are going to develop the tactics, techniques, procedures, rules of the road that would allow us ... to fight the architecture and protect it while it's under attack," Work said. Russia to launch large-scale space projects with China

"The Chinese side expresses interest in collaborating to create manned Lunar exploration infrastructure," Denis Kravchenko, deputy general director of the United Rocket and Space Corporation (URSC), said.

China aims to challenge U.S. air dominance

June 23, 2015 -- Reuters reports: "China is mounting a serious effort to challenge U.S. military superiority in air and space, forcing the Pentagon to seek new technologies and systems to stay ahead of its rapidly developing rival, Deputy Defense Secretary Robert Work said on Monday.

The Pentagon's chief operating officer, speaking to a group of military and civilian aerospace experts, said China was 'quickly closing the technological gaps,' developing radar-evading aircraft, advanced reconnaissance planes, sophisticated missiles and top-notch electronic warfare equipment.

While hoping for a constructive relationship with China, the Pentagon 'cannot overlook the competitive aspects of our relationship, especially in the realm of military capabilities, an area in which China continues to improve at a very impressive rate,' he said.

NEWS FROM ISRAEL AND THE MIDDLE EAST

Vatican signs historic first accord with 'Palestine'

June 26, 2015 -- Israel National News reports: "The Vatican on Friday signed an historic first accord with 'Palestine,' two years after officially recognizing the Palestinian Authority (PA) as a state.

The accord, a treaty covering the life and activity of the Church in Judea and Samaria, was the first since the Vatican made the controversial step of recognition in February 2013.

The treaty, which took 15 years of negotiations to complete, was agreed in principle last month and condemned by Israel as a setback for the peace process.

Signing international treaties unilaterally is a breach of the 1993 Oslo Accords which created the PA.

The Vatican's recognition of 'Palestine' followed a November 12 vote in favor of recognition by the UN General Assembly, although the Vatican is supposed to be an apolitical religious body.

Vatican officials have described it as reflecting the Church's desire to see the conflict in the Holy Land resolved by a 'two-state' solution.

The PA considers the Vatican one of 136 countries to have recognized 'Palestine' as a state, although the number is disputed and several recognitions by what are now European Union member states date back to the Soviet era.

The Vatican has had diplomatic relations with Israel since 1993 but has yet to conclude an accord on the Church's rights in the Jewish state which has been under discussion since 1999..." (The above informative headline is Anti-Semitic. 1933 redux: Vatican signs treaty with terror state

June 29, 2015 -- WND.com reports: "Just as with Nazi Germany, the Vatican is on the wrong side of history – again.

In a supreme act of dhimmitude and submission, the Vatican has signed a treaty with the terror entity, euphemistically known as 'the state of Palestine.' AP reported that 'the Vatican signed a treaty with the 'State of Palestine' on Friday, saying it hoped its legal recognition of the state would help stimulate peace with Israel and that the treaty itself would serve as a model for other Mideast countries. Vatican Foreign Minister Paul Gallagher and his Palestinian counterpart, Riad al-Malki, signed the treaty at a ceremony inside the Vatican.'

The Vatican saying that it hoped its 'legal recognition of the state would help stimulate peace with Israel' is just some of the absurd babble that has accompanied this 'treaty.' Why would the Vatican's recognition of the 'State of Palestine' help stimulate peace with Israel? If the jihadists got official recognition from the Vatican by refusing to make peace and refusing to ever recognize the Jewish state, why would it lead to 'peace'? Terrorism works, why stop? ..."

Israeli Islamist cleric says Israel may 'end' within 6 months

June 24, 2015 -- Israel National News reports: "In an apparent attempt to prevent incitement and further flareups during the Muslim fast month of Ramadan which started last Thursday, Israel has issued a distancing order blocking Sheikh Raed Salah from visiting Jerusalem for six months.

Salah, head of the radical Islamic Movement in Israel, is forbidden from visiting the capital from June 25 up until this December.

The fears of incitement to violence during Ramadan are well-founded based on events since the month started; a Jewish man was murdered by an Arab terrorist in a shooting attack last Friday in Samaria, and on Sunday another Arab terrorist from Hevron stabbed a Border Patrol officer critically wounding him.

The decision to block Salah was condemned by the sheikh, who wrote on Facebook that 'the Israeli occupation views itself as an unbending force, but those who know the truth about it know that the occupation is a braggart, an idiot, valueless and born by mistake from illusions and remains mistaken in illusions.'

According to Salah, 'the expressions of the illusions of the occupation are revealed in the evil decision to prevent me from entering Jerusalem for six months.'

'Who knows if the occupation will end before the period of six months ends?' posed the sheikh, voicing his hopes for the end of Israel..." (Never! Iran's 'Death to Israel Day' coincides with nuke deal deadline July 8, 2015 -- Israel National News reports: "It has been said that truth is stranger than fiction, and indeed it would be hard to imagine scripting the signing of a nuclear deal with the world's leading state sponsor of terrorism on the very day that this regime holds an annual global protest calling for the destruction of the Jewish state.

And yet that plot twist is fully set to happen, as Iran's 'Death to Israel Day,' officially known as Quds Day or Jerusalem Day, will take place this Friday, July 10 - bizarrely timed to coincide with the newly re-extended deadline for a final deal on Iran's nuclear program.

American officials said Tuesday that the latest extension on the deadline will be the last, indicating that there is a great likelihood that calls to destroy Israel will echo Iranian celebrations of a deal that Israel and other critics see as paving the Islamic regime's path to a nuclear arsenal.

Quds Day is held annually on the final Friday of the Muslim fast month of Ramadan.

It was instituted on August 7, 1979 by then-Iranian Supreme Leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini just after the Islamic Revolution, as a day of solidarity against the 'usurper Israel.'

Each year the protest - which is held in Tehran and around the world in events that reportedly are largely organized and funded by Iran - is punctuated by shrill calls of 'Death to Israel,' often accompanied by a refrain of 'Death to America.'..."

Nigerian schoolgirls slit Christians' throats under orders from Boko Haram

July 1, 2015 -- Breitbart.com reports:

"Schoolgirls that have been abducted by the Nigeria-based Boko Haram Muslim terror group are now being seen on the battlefield fighting on behalf of the terror entity, leading some to believe that they are being forced to join the murderous group.

Witnesses in Nigeria told the BBC that the young female soldiers are now being used as foot soldiers for the group, with some being used to 'terrorize other captives' and 'carrying out killings themselves.'

Three women who escaped Boko Haram told the BBC that a handful of schoolgirls have been 'brainwashed' to run operations in support of the jihadi organization.

The fighters said, according to the escapee: 'You women should learn from your husbands (who they were forced to marry) because they are giving their blood for the cause. We must go to war for Allah.'

In one such instance, 17-year-old Miriam, who escaped Boko Haram captivity, said that the Boko Haram jihadis forced Christian men to lay down then told the girls to 'cut their throats.'

Anna, 60, who fled captivity in the Sambisa forest, said of her time with the militant group: 'Young girls who couldn't recite [the Koran] were being flogged' by other girls as a means of punishment...' (More Muslim hatred and slaughter in the name of their god. Christian couple beaten by angry mob in Pakistan after blasphemy accusation July 3, 2015 -- ChristianToday.com reports: "A Christian couple narrowly escaped with their lives in Pakistan after they were accused of blasphemy by an angry mob.

The couple, in Makki village in Punjab, were saved by Sheikhpura police after Muslim clerics accused them of blasphemy.

The clerics were responding to accusations by others in the village that the couple's sleeping mat carried an advertisement with Arabic inscriptions from the Quran. They were said to have blasphemed simply by sleeping on a mat thus decorated.

Local clerics in the Makki village, in Pakistan's Punjab province, had accused the couple of blasphemy, after some locals claimed that an advertisement on a mat they were using to sleep on, had some Arabic inscriptions from the Quran.

Obama response to Christian killing fields 'horrifying'

July 9, 2015 -- WND.com reports: "Syrian Christian families are being forced out of their homes by rebel factions operating with the support of the U.S. and its allies in Syria's civil war while President Obama continues his policy of ignoring a genocide in the making.

A coalition of Sunni Islamist forces working to overthrow the Shiite government of Syrian President Bashar al-Assad is attempting to seize the key northern city of Aleppo with help from the U.S., Turkey and Saudi Arabia.

Aleppo has been home to Syria's largest Christian community, numbering in the tens of thousands, but two-thirds of this community has been scattered throughout the surrounding countryside into neighboring towns while others have migrated across the border to Turkey or into Lebanon.

The rebel coalition, which is fighting ISIS as well as Assad, is no different than ISIS in its utter contempt of Christians. Belgium helps hundreds of Christians escape Syria

July 9, 2015 -- Israel National News reports: "The Belgian government said Wednesday that it has in recent months helped 244 Christians to escape from Syria and move to Belgium with refugee status, most of them families with children.

The humanitarian operation began in May to 'save' some of the most vulnerable people in Aleppo, Syria's second city where Islamist rebels are gaining ground, Foreign Minister Didier Reynders told a press conference in Brussels, according to AFP.

The minority Christians were selected by a citizen 'action committee' run by a Belgian diplomat and a psychiatrist with a network of contacts in the country. They left Aleppo in small groups and in seven phases.

They reached the Lebanese border 'on their own, crossing very dangerous areas of Syria', then received support from the Belgian embassy in Beirut which arranged for refugee visas after a 'very precise screening' by the intelligence services, Reynders said.

The minister said the operation was just 'a drop' compared to the scale of Europe's migration crisis, but he expressed hope that it could set an example to other countries..." (God bless Belgium. July 7, 2015 -- ChristianToday.com reports: "A Saudi Sheikh who was responsible for training ISIS jihadists has reportedly asked for a Bible having grown sick of the group's brutality, a missionary in the Middle East has said.

'Julian', who works with mission organization Operation Mobilization and has lived in the Muslim world for many years, told Voice of the Martyrs Radio last week about accounts of Muslims in the Middle East, including members of ISIS, coming to faith in Christ.

Christian prisoner talks Iranian Muslim interrogator into embracing Christianity

June 14, 2015 -- ChristianToday.com reports: "A Christian woman arrested in Iran for her faith became an instrument for conversion after her Iranian interrogator known for persecuting religious minorities surprisingly gave up his Islamic faith and embraced Christianity instead.

Noushin, who was forced in solitary confinement for three days in the Muslim-dominated country, said all she did was to share the Gospel to her inquisitor, according to the Gospel Herald.

'We talked about Jesus for hours until finally the interrogator gave his heart to Jesus. We prayed together,' she recalled.

'It's an honor for me to talk about Jesus,' Noushin told the guard. 'You also need Jesus in your life. I cannot be indifferent toward you. I want you to experience the joy and blessing of salvation. I can't keep silent about this.'

Noushin said at first she thought her detention would make her give up her faith.

'I wasn't ready to go to prison,' she said. 'I knew it was a dirty place, a place where people are tortured and locked up in solitary confinement. I was afraid that I would be so fearful that I would give up all the names of the members of house church. I even feared that I would deny my faith if they tortured me.'

'We are living in the midst of the greatest turning of Muslims to Christ'

June 17, 2015 -- ChristianToday.com reports: "Despite the daily news of the persecution of Christians around the world by Islamist groups, there is another, lesser-known story of growing numbers of Muslims around the world who are turning to Christ as Lord.

Missionary David Garrison's book, A Wind in the House of Islam, charts this phenomenon, which he says demonstrates that 'we are living in the midst of the greatest turning of Muslims to Christ in history'.

The book is the result of two and a half years of research and involved travelling more than 250,000 miles to conduct interviews with more than 1,000 people around the Muslim world. In the study, a 'movement' of believers is defined as a group of more than 1,000 baptized believers or 100 new churches within a Muslim community. In total he found 69 movements that had started in the first 12 years of the 21st century, in comparison with virtually no voluntary movements of converts to Christianity in the first 12 centuries of Islam...

Muslims who convert to Christianity can face the death penalty and many experience intense persecution, so converts are often underground, making it impossible to know exactly how many new believers there are, but estimates currently range between 2 and 7 million.

So why is this turning to Christ happening now? 'God has brought several elements together uniquely in our time,' he says. 'Some of them are old elements – Muslim violence is not new, this is one of the least violent centuries in Muslim history – but what's different is today when Muslims experience this violence, they can see an alternative... they can switch on their Internet, they can turn on their television and hear an evangelist speaking Farsi or Kazakh or Uzbek...' In the year since the jihadist group announced its 'caliphate' last June, its de facto Syrian capital of Raqqa has been transformed into a macabre metropolis.

Human heads are displayed on spikes at the central roundabout and crucified bodies hang for days to terrorize local residents, said Abu Ibrahim Raqqawi, a Raqqa resident and anti-ISIS activist.

ISIS drowns prisoners in cage, kills via explosive necklace in new video

June 24, 2015 -- Breitbart.com reports: "A new video purportedly released by the Islamic State (IS/ISIS/ISIL) terror organization shows the group employing brutal execution methods to kill its prisoners.

Later in the video, prisoners who are locked in a car are shot by an ISIS jihadi with an RPG, causing the vehicle to burst into flames.

In a third segment, prisoners are chained together through explosive necklaces. The explosive necklaces are then detonated, causing decapitation.

Iraq: Islamic State kidnap more than 1200 children to train as jihadists

June 26, 2015 -- ChristianToday.com reports: "Islamic State atrocities against children have continued with the kidnap of more than 1,200 children from northern Iraq in order to train them as jihadists.

In the week that ISIS punished two boys in Syria by suspending them from a pole for eating during the Muslim fast of Ramadan, it has emerged that the children have been forcibly relocated to a jihad training base in Mosul.

Saeed Mamouzini, of the Kurdish Democratic Party in Mosul, told al-Sumaria TV in Iraq that 1,227 children from Mosul had been seized and taken to a 'cubs of the caliphate' indoctrination center. There, they will be brutalized with extremist ideology and trained up to be murderers, terrorists and suicide bombers.

Parents and other adults who tried to resist the abductions were also seized.

The latest abductions follow the seizure of 400 children from Anbar province and more than 100 children from Diyala province earlier this month. Children are also being taken by jihadist forces in other countries.

ISIS crucifies dozens for breaking Ramadan fast

July 8, 2015 -- Breitbart.com reports: "Islamic State (ISIS/ISIL) militants have crucified dozens of Syrian men and boys for breaking the Ramadan fast, according to reports.

Eyewitnesses told the Syrian ARA News, 'Those who break Ramadan are being crucified on electricity poles in Deir ez-Zor,' in eastern Syria.

'The roads are filled with crucified men who violated the group's strict regulations during Ramadan. There are dozens of victims who remain hanged on electricity poles across the province,' they said.

ARA links to a video, published by activists, which purportedly shows people being 'crucified alive' in the town of Hajin, a city to the east of Deir ez-Zor, for breaking the Ramadan fast without legitimate reason.

The video shows a man slowly driving his car down a main road while he passes at least nine men and boys tied to electric poles in the median of the street, with their arms stretched out and affixed to a crosspiece. Pentagon confirms ISIS 'dirty bomb' claims that the Islamic State has seized enough radioactive materials from captured Iraqi facilities to develop ‘dirty bombs,’ just as ISIS’ recent English-language magazine, Dabiq, claimed.

The ISIS claim had alarmed the Australian intelligence service, which initially revealed the prospect that ISIS fighters have seized sufficient radioactive and biological materials from research centers and hospitals – which previously were under Iraqi government control.

Such seizures were first revealed at a meeting of the Australia Group in Perth, Australia, at which Australian Foreign Minister Julie Bishop expressed the deep concern of members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and regional partners over the potential use by ISIS of the seized materials.

‘We are aware of claims that ISIL has declared its motives of developing a ‘dirty bomb’ in a recent edition of its propaganda magazine,’ Defense Department spokeswoman, U.S. Navy Cmdr. Elissa Smith, told WND.

‘We share the same concern as our Australian defense officials and regional partners and will continue to use our intelligence resources to remain vigilant of any activity and indicators of this violent extremist organization’s intent to employ such weapons,’ she said...’ (Islam has a law which states that all lying and deceit is condoned as long as it promotes Islam.)

North Carolina man charged in plot to kill Americans for Islamic State

June 22, 2015 -- Reuters reports: “A North Carolina man has been charged with an alleged plot to buy a semiautomatic rifle which he planned to use to kill Americans to show his support for the Islamic State militant group, the U.S. Department of Justice said on Monday.

Justin Nojan Sullivan, 19, of Morganton, North Carolina, who was arrested on Friday, is due to appear in federal court in Charlotte at noon (1600 GMT), said a spokeswoman for the U.S. Attorney’s Office for the Western District of North Carolina.

Sullivan is charged with one count of attempting to provide material support to Islamic State and two counts of weapons charges.

According to the complaint, Sullivan, who described himself as a Muslim convert, was tracked by the FBI after his father called the police in late April to report his son was trying to burn Buddhist religious objects in their home in an apparent Islamic-State inspired tirade and the family were scared to leave the house.

This month, Sullivan plotted with an undercover FBI agent to buy a semi-automatic rifle at a gun show, telling the agent ‘the war is here,’ according to the complaint.

He then asked the agent to send him a homemade silencer as he planned on carrying out ‘minor assassinations before the big attack for training’ and planned to send a video to Islamic State.

He was arrested at his home after receiving the silencer through the mail, prosecutors said...’ (ISIS, the Islamic State, is one of the worst killing organizations in Muslim history. They are responsible for many of the reports that follow.)

Ohio ISIS recruit was ready to ‘cut off the head of his non-Muslim son’

June 20, 2015 -- Breitbart.com reports: “To show his devotion to the Islamic State terror group, and to Islam as a whole, an Ohio man arrested on Friday told an informant that he would cut off the head of his own biological son—akin to the beheadings carried out by Islamic State (ISIS) fanatics in the Middle East—to prove his worth as a Muslim, an FBI complaint against the man alleges.

Thirty-eight-year-old Amir Said Abdul Rahman Al-Ghazi, formerly known as Robert C. McCollum, was arrested by the FBI early Friday at his Sheffield Lake, Ohio, apartment. He is being brought up on charges of supporting the Islamic State terrorist organization...’ (Imagine such devastating murderous acts and torture of one’s own son in the name of god.)

ISIS pressure cooker attack in New York thwarted

June 17, 2015 -- Israel National News reports: “A 20-year-old New York City college student has been arrested for plotting a pressure cooker bombing attack in the city to support Islamic State (ISIS), as revealed in Brooklyn court documents published on Tuesday.

The student, Munther Omar Saleh, was arrested along with another man on Saturday morning when they got out of their car and charged at a surveillance vehicle that had been following them, reports Reuters.

Saleh, who hails from Queens, invested hours researching online how to build a lethal pressure cooker bomb stuffed with nails and other shrapnel according to federal agents.

He also read accounts from the 2013 Boston Marathon bombing, in which an attack with two pressure cookers at the finish line murdered three and wounded over 260 others.

The student vocally supported ISIS online, and in one Twitter post said of the Al Qaeda terrorist organization ‘I fear AQ could be getting too moderate.’ He likewise praised terrorist attacks carried out by ISIS, as well as the lethal January attack on the Charlie Hebdo headquarters in Paris.

Saleh evidently began his attempts to translate his online terrorism craze into real world action back in March, when a police officer saw him on successive days walking about the George Washington Bridge between New Jersey and New York just looking around, apparently planning an attack...’ (More murderous plans.
